The Orange Plein Air Privy Project (OPP)

It all began five years ago, as a tongue-in-cheek suggestion that the Arts Center pursue an outhouse mural fundraiser similar to the Texas Thunder Boxes (www.thunderboxroad.com).

Five years ago, it was funny. Funding for the Arts was holding its own, The Arts Center In Orange was safe and sound. Things are different now.

So, when Orange County High's Future Farmers of America (FFA) presented The Arts Center with the four outhouses they had built using recycled lumber from the old OC High gym bleachers, we weren't laughing. We said, Thank You! And, that's how the Orange Plein Air Privy Project (OPP) began.

Although constructed along the lines of an outhouse, the OPP interiors are outfitted as garden sheds, not as functioning outhouses. The exteriors will be painted as landscape murals suitable to adorn and integrate into any Virginia garden.

Four wonderful mural artists have stepped forward to paint the OPP - Susan Krieg, Todd Brown, Linda Montgomery and Arts Center Outreach Director Anna Marie DeMio Downen working with kids from the Boys & Girls Club of Orange.

In keeping with the notion that the OPP will enhance garden landscapes, the artists have selected the themes of Virginia Wild Life, Blue Ridge Landscape, Virginia Vineyard and -- at the Boys & Girls Club -- a rural landscape inspired by the murals of Thomas Hart Benton.

The FFA delivered the OPP to the following locations in the Town of Orange, for the artists to work on during the month of July and the first week of August:

- Todd Brown Art Gallery – 319 Madison Road,
- The Corner House Gallery – 173 West Main Street,
- The Boys & Girls Club of Orange – 200 Daily Drive,
- The Arts Center In Orange – 129 East Main Street.

The public is welcome to visit the artists at work and enjoy the privies' progress at the locations listed above and online at www.facebook.com/OrangePleinAirPrivies.

Once completed, the OPP will be reunited at the edible FOOD FEST in Orange (www.ediblefest.com) on August 11 for a final presentation and auction to raise funds for The Arts Center In Orange.

Saying Goodbye

This spring, we said goodbye to one of the Arts Center's heroes. Ann Mallory passed on May 21.

Ann was an Arts Center volunteer before the Arts Center

In Orange was the Arts Center In Orange. She was one of those crazy people who volunteered when we were wandering from one donated unoccupied and unheated Main Street property to another.

When Bob Morin offered the Arts Center a permanent home, Ann was there wielding the floor sander. She cooked and cleaned to cater our events, and she kept her ear to the wind, making sure that we were on track and serving the community. When asked why she volunteered, she simply said, because she could.

I miss Ann most on the weeks I have to hang an exhibit in the gallery. She had an eye. She could stand back and level the exhibit. When she stood in the gallery and cast her eye about, she saved me countless trips up and down the ladder leveling and arranging the work.

And, she did it all -- from floor sanding to pumpkin painting -- with such grace.

Laura Thompson, Arts Center Director
