Classically Contemporary
Classical ideals in contemporary drawing, painting, & sculpture
Exhibit dates: January 6 - Feb 26, 2011 -- Reception: Thursday, January 6th at 5pm

Realist artist Jeanne Grimsby began her study at the Art College of Pratt Institute in the 1960’s, and earned her Master’s Degree in Studio Art from James Madison University thirty years later. Working in oil, pastel, charcoal, and graphite, her work is inspired by the Flemish Primitive Van Eyck, the Dutch masters Vermeer and ter Borch, and 19th century artists Jean Dominique Ingres, John Singer Sargent, and William Merritt Chase. Thomas Marsh is a classical figurative sculptor who has created many public monuments in California, as well as works in public and private collections throughout the U.S. He was the concept designer and sculptor of the Victims of Communism Memorial (2007) in Washington, DC. Marsh received a BFA in painting from the Layton School of Art, Milwaukee, WI, in 1974, an MFA in sculpture from California State University, Long Beach in 1977, and has studied extensively in Italy. www.tmarshsculptor.com

Henry Wingate spent six years studying painting. He worked with Paul Ingbretson in Boston for five years and with Charles Cecil in Florence, Italy for one year. Both of these painters and teachers studied under Ives Gammell (1893-1981) who was instrumental in preserving the traditional “Atelier” style training. Wingate has now been a professional artist for ten years primarily painting commissioned portraits but also doing figurative works, still lifes, and landscapes, all in oil. www.henrywingate.com

In March, the Morin Gallery presents:

A Little Light Magic

Exhibit dates: March 3 – April 30, 2011
Opening reception: Thursday, March 3, 6:30pm

Members of the Central Virginia Watercolor Guild demonstrate the unique ability of the watercolor medium to utilize light transmitted through transparent color.

Not for the timid, the practice of traditional watercolor presents considerable challenges, and the works in this exhibition by the Central Virginia Watercolor Guild offer the viewer insights into this exciting medium. In addition, this exhibition highlights a broad range of dynamic approaches used by contemporary watercolorists. Stretching the traditional boundaries of the medium, the paintings include watermedia such as gouache, acrylics and inks, and diverse surfaces such as yupo, the mercurial plasticized surface that produces such enchanting results. The subject matter and manners of expression for A Little Light Magic are broad-ranging and intriguing, having been defined by the vision of each exhibiting CVWG artist.

At The Arts Center In Orange, Our Volunteers are Our “Front Line”

In addition to allowing the gift shop and gallery to offer regular operating hours, volunteer staffers keep the AC in touch with the community, inform us of glitches in the system and offer practical solutions. Bringing with them a wealth of experience, Arts Center volunteers also assume responsibility for weekly maintenance and administrative tasks, and provide on-call assistance with deadline driven projects.

In late October, Arts Center volunteers gathered in the gallery to enjoy a tea and discuss current and upcoming Arts Center programs, events, policies and challenges. It was a successful meeting, yielding great feedback and ideas. An overwhelming consensus was reached that The Arts Center In Orange needs more volunteers. If you would like to join this dynamic team of local heroes, and have a few hours to offer, please contact Laura at 540.672.7311 or email theartsorange@aol.com

And, be sure to thank the volunteer everytime you visit the Arts Center.

Outreach News

The annual Art Adventures Exhibit at Dogwood Senior Living/The Arts Center In Orange was held in mid-September and was a smashing success! Participants from Dogwood Village SL team up with TACIO Outreach Program during bi-monthly classes, with work culled from the past year being displayed in this highly anticipated annual event. Dogwood Village’s Art Adventurers have already begun work for next year’s exhibit, painting bird houses crafted by students from Orange County High’s Future Farmers of America. In addition to the September 2011 exhibit at Dogwood Village, the bird houses will also travel to Richmond to be exhibited at the Virginia House of Delegates!

The monthly sessions with Orange County Head Start and Early Head Start resumed in October, keeping in step with the 2010-2011 school term, and will culminate with an art exhibit in May. Clay leaf pressings are already lining up, awaiting their turn to be fired in the kiln! It’s never too early for art!

Having just finished up a great summer session with the Boys and Girls Club of Orange, monthly visits to TACIO have already begun, as well as Outreach visits to BGC to work on an inspirational mural. Visiting Alaskan artists Ron Senungetuk and Barry Smith, whose works are showing in the main gallery November 11th thru December 22nd, came to the BGC (thank you to curators Amrie and Peter Lipsky), with a presentation followed by an art project being an exciting and memorable experience for all involved!

Outreach Music - The youngest National Slide Guitar Champion - at the age of sixteen - Outreach guitarist Hunter Wolfe is heading to the 2011 International Blues Challenge in Memphis for the second year in a row. A welcome back to fiddler Alex Caton! And Celtic harpist Eve Watters! The opportunity to have the two of you back as individually talented musicians is a terrific boon to the music programs that Outreach provides.

A $5000 donation, from the Elis Olsson Memorial Foundation, was received this October. Thank you. The Outreach program is entirely funded by private donations, be they from foundations or from individuals. Without this donation, and donations from The Charlottesville Area Community Foundation, Bama Works, Target and others, these great opportunities to encourage creativity, confidence and a true fusing of art and the individual simply would not be possible. Many thanks to both past and present donors.

Outreach Director
